#1. We Support Our Teams

It's What We Do

It's almost certain that in ten years from now, we won't recall what was on that deadly AP test. We won't remember what time third hour ended. And we certainly won't be able to remember our locker combination. Did you even use your locker in high school?! What then, will we remember? Cheering on our friends at games as they score the winning basket, messing around at lunch and laughing so hard we cry. Maybe it will be when you found out your best friend liked you too. Whatever we remember, what we do plays a crucial role in our high school career,

High School only lasts four years (for most students), but those four years go on to shape who we become for the rest of our lives. Everyone faces trials and tribulations of some type throughout these years, but the outcome is always the same. These years, these friends, these times are all we are. We're forced to make the transition from teenagers into adults. This place will always be a part of me; you're all a part of me. When you look back at these pictures, remember the good times, as well as the bad. Because it's the bad times that shape us into the strong, fighting people we've become. Growing up won't bring us down ;) Yeah. That's a winky face.
